HE'S NOW A DOCTOR

Harvard College Confers a Degree Upon Prince Henry of Prussia.

PLEASE THE EMPEROR

William's Cable of Congratulation Says this is the Highest Honor America Has to Confer.

The Prince is Given One of the Busiest Days of His Trip At the Hub.

Boston, March 7.—Prince Henry of Prussia was the guest of Boston yesterday. His welcome was cordial. Governor Crane and Mayor Collins, acting for the state and the city, extended the official courtesies to him, and after the prince ceremoniously returned their calls he went to Cambridge to deliver the gifts of his brother the kaiser to the German museum and to receive from Harvard the honorary degree of doctor of laws, conferred by President Eliot.

bridge to deliver the gifts of his brother the kaiser to the German museum and to receive from Harvard the honorary degree of doctor of laws, conferred by President Eliot.

Prince Henry's first act at the Harvard union shortly after he received the degree was to propose and lead three cheers for President Roosevelt, who is a Harvard alumnus. The prince received a cablegram from the emperor congratulating him on his newest honor, "the highest honor America can confer," said the emperor.

Last night the prince was given a dinner by the city of Boston and sat at a table with more than 200 of the representative citizens of the commonwealth. He resumed his journey early this morning and today is visiting Albany and the United States military academy at West Point, en route to New York, which he will reach this evening.

Boston was reached on schedule and as soon as the special halted in South station Mayor Collins and a delegation of city officials boarded the train and were introduced to the prince by Ambassador Von Holleben. There was an exchange of greetings and the prince, his staff and the members of the American escort were shown to carriages waiting at the driveway of the depot. Escorted by cavalymen and naval militiamen, the party was driven to Hotel Somerset. The people were densely packed behind the police lines and every building was crowded. The prince wore his naval uniform and acknowledged the greetings with his characteristic salute. When the carriage reached the common a battery sounded a royal salute.

At the Somerset the prince, surrounded by his staff in full uniform, received Governor Crane, who came with an equally brilliant staff, and when the call was ended the prince started for the statehouse to return the courtesy. After he had paid his respects to Governor Crane he entered the house of representatives, where the legislature was in session and was presented from the forum by President Soule of the senate. Leaving the chamber he was shown the battleflags carried by the regiments of the state in the civil war. After that he re-entered his carriage and was driven to the public library, where he returned the call of Mayor Collins. Thirty-five veterans who fought with his grandfather in the Franco-Prussian war, were presented at the library and the prince shook hands with them all and asked them questions. The ceremony at the library over, the prince returned to the Somerset and after a short wait there started for Cambridge. Mayor McNamee gave him the freedom of the city of Cambridge and the school children sang for him at the city hall.

At the university he was first taken to Memorial hall, where he met the corporation of the college, and then to Sanders theater, where the degree was conferred by President Eliot, who appeared in the scholar's gown. The prince did not respond in speech to the address of the president, but simply bowed an acknowledgment. He was next escorted to the faculty room, where he met the faculty, and with his staff lunched with them. This was an entirely informal affair and at its conclusion the entire party repaired to the Harvard union. This building was filled with students and other representatives of collegiate life, where an interesting program was conducted, after which, escorted by cavalry, the prince returned to the Somerset.

DEADLY MINE EXPLOSION

Five Men Slain When a Poul Shaft Was Opened.

Monongahela, Pa., March 7.—An explosion in the Catsburg mine of the Monongahela River Consolidated Coal and Coke company yesterday resulted in the death of five men and serious injury of several others, two fatally. On Monday a premature explosion of dynamite caused gas to ignite, and since that time the mine has been burning. All the air channels were closed, and it was hoped that the flames could be smothered. Yesterday 20 men entered the mine to investigate. It is not explained what caused the explosion, but it is thought that the turning on of the air, which had been shut off by the fan caused the gas which had accumulated to ignite. A terrible explosion followed soon after the men entered. A relief party headed by Superintendent Seddon and Mine Inspector Loutitt made an effort and nearly succeeded in reaching the imprisoned men, but were compelled to return for air. All were overcome and are in a serious condition. A second relief party headed by John Coulter entered the mine by another way, but a second explosion occurred and they were forced to retreat. A third relief party made a futile attempt. Further attempts will be made to reach the bodies of the men who are believed to have perished. James Hagger was reached by one rescuing party. He was found badly burned. James Terrent was burned by the flames that shot up all around him, but he crawled a thousand feet from his companion, Gilder, who was instantly killed.

Gov. Taft's Plans.

Washington, March 7.—Governor Taft having concluded his testimony before the congressional committee, left here yesterday for Cincinnati. While there he will undergo an operation for the ailment which compelled his return home. His present plan is to return to Washington in about a month for a conference with the president and secretary of war and to start for Manila about the first of May. His health was very much improved since his return to this country.

Entire Valley Tied Up.

Bethlehem, Pa., March 7.—Snowdrifts 10 feet deep extend from one end of the Lehigh valley to the other, blocking the trolley roads and the Lehigh and Lackawanna branch of the Jersey Central railroad and choking up every township road between here and the Blue Mountains. Reports from Wind Gap and vicinity say that much livestock has perished. Accompanying the storm is the embarrassment of the coal dealers and a famine they say is inevitable.

A Huge Mortgage.

Clarksburg, W. Va., March 7.—A mortgage for $75,000,000 given by the Baltimore and Ohio railroad was admitted for record in the office of the county clerk here yesterday. It was in favor of the Union Trust company of New York. The purpose of the mortgage is to liquidate all outstanding mortgages previously given on all lines operated by the Baltimore and Ohio system in Pennsylvania, Ohio and West Virginia.

Doctor Overdoes It.

Columbia, S. C., March 7.—Dr. Richard Ferguson Jr., 28 years old, formerly of Richmond, Va., was found dead in his house last evening. He had been unwell and it is supposed that while attempting to put himself to sleep with chloroform his head fell forward into a saturated handkerchief.

Banks Spreading Out.

Washington, March 7.—A report issued by the treasury department shows that since the passage of the act of March 14, 1900, there have been organized 878 national banking associations with aggregate capital stock of $48,519,000 and bond deposits of $12,872,400.

He Was After Business.

Denver, Col., March 7.—Louis C. Withaup, a pension attorney of this city, who had been convicted in the United States district court of having forged signatures to pension checks, has been sentenced to serve five years at hard labor in the Leavenworth penitentiary.

Of Unknown Origin.

Dublin, Ind., March 7.—A disastrous fire originating in the rear of the old Hatfield factory near the center of the town about 8 o'clock last evening destroyed that plant and the residence of W. B. Smith. The origin of the fire is unknown.

LINER WENT DOWN

Disastrous Collision of Big Vessels Occurs Off Holyhead, Wales.

TWO PASSENGERS LOST

Out of More Than One Hundred Passengers On the Vessel But Two Are Lost In the Wreck.

Steamers Come Together In the Fog and the Waesland Goes Down In Half An Hour.

Liverpool, March 7.—The American line steamer Waesland, Capt. Atfield, from Liverpool March 5 for Philadelphia, and the British ship Harmonides, Capt. Pentin, from Para Feb. 12 for Liverpool, met in collision last night off Holyhead, Wales. The Waesland sank. Her passengers and crew were saved. The Harmonides rescued the passenger and crew of the Waesland and brought them to Liverpool. The Waesland carried 32 cabin and 82 steerage passengers. They were received by the agents of the American line here and were quartered at various hotels.

The collision occurred in a thick fog, when the Waesland was about 40 miles southwest of Holyhead. The Harmonides struck the Waesland amidships and there was a terrible shock. Most of the Waesland's passengers had retired for the night.

Perfect order and discipline prevailed. The crew of the steamer rapidly turned out the passengers and succeeded in assuring them that their lives were safe. The passengers were greatly influenced by the coolness of the crew and obeyed instructions willingly and quickly. The Waesland's boats were speedily got out and in less than half an hour the entire ship's company had been transferred to the Harmonides. Unfortunately two lives were lost. The dead are a steerage passenger named Dangerfield and a child named Elsie Emmett, the daughter of a cabin passenger.

The Waesland sank in 35 minutes after the collision. The passengers and crew lost all their belongings. The vessel carried no mails. The passengers unite in the highest praise of the behavior of Capt. Atfield and his crew. It is expected that the company will send the passengers by another vessel next week.

The Waesland is owned by the International Navigation company but flies the Belgian flag. She plied regularly in the American line service between Philadelphia and Liverpool, touching at Queenstown each way. Formerly she was known as the Russia. She is a four-masted bark-rigged iron vessel of 3,676 tons net.

Another Andree Rumor.

Winnipeg, March 7.—The Hudson Bay company's officials here deny that they have received any confirmation from their agents in the far north of the story that Andree, the Swedish aeronaut and explorer, was shot by Eskimos on the shore of Hudson bay. A similar story was published about two years ago and was traced by the Hudson bay officials, but no confirmation of the report could be secured.

A Fruitless Mission.

Washington, March 7.—The mission of the Boer delegates to the United States government is ended as far as officials know. They presented no credentials and made no effort to embarrass the administration by formal applications for relief. Their future movements are not known to the officials.

Created Suspicion.

Van Wert, Ohio, March 7.—Sheriff Wilson and two deputies arrested four men last night who are believed to be burglars. They gave their names as Frank Walters and John Graham of Chicago and Frank Harman and John Gilmore of St. Louis. They had dynamite, revolvers and burglars' tools in their possession.

Company Agreeably Surprised.

Plattsburg, N. Y., March 7.—The Chateaugay Ore and Iron company has discovered that the vein of iron ore at its mines near Lyon Mountain, New York, which it is supposed was 30 feet in thickness, is over 70 feet and extends for six miles, making it one of the largest deposits of iron ore in the world.

Panama Politics.

Panama, March 7.—General Salazar, the new governor of the isthmus, has appointed Arjona and Aleman as secretaries to the departments of state and finance, respectively. This action is taken to show that General Salazar intends to continue the same policy as was observed by the late General Alban.

A Determined Sheriff.

Hattiesburg, Miss., March 7.—Sheriff Moody of Pearl River county yesterday shot and killed A. B. Miller and slightly wounded a man named Wright. It is claimed that the men were resisting arrest.

Run Down By Engine

Birmingham, Ala., March 7.—Martin J. Lynch, superintendent of the construction of the locks in the Warrior river, was run over by a dummy engine at Tuscaloosa yesterday and instantly killed.

FORCEFUL ARGUMENT

Senator Hanna Holds Close Attention of the Senate.

Washington, March 7.—A notable speech was made in the senate yesterday by Mr. Hanna of Ohio, on the pending shipping bill, which he discussed from the standpoint of an American business man. His arguments were carefully arranged, he was always forceful and earnest and at times became eloquent. He commanded the undivided attention of the senate and of the galleries and when he closed he received congratulations of many of his colleagues.

Early in the session Mr. Frye, in charge of the pending shipping bill, obtained an agreement that the senate should vote on the measure and all pending amendments at 3 p. m. Monday, March 17, that time being entirely satisfactory to those opposed to the bill.

Before consideration of the shipping bill was resumed an extended debate occurred on the measure providing for the protection of the president of the United States. No action on the bill was taken. The house devoted another day to debate on the bill to classify the rural free delivery service and to place the carriers under contract. Little interest was manifested in the discussion. A vote is expected today.

States Getting Together.

St. Louis, March 7.—An organization of state and territorial commissioners to the Louisiana Purchase Exposition was formed last night. H. M. Dunlap of Illinois was chosen temporary president. Mr. Dunlap stated the object of the organization to be "the formation of a national association of state commissioners and officials in charge of state and territorial exhibits at the exposition, to promote the general objects of the exposition and for mutual aid between states looking to unity of action in bringing about results connected with state and individual exhibits."

Grand Army Action.

Minneapolis, March 7.—A resolution censuring Pension Commissioner Evans was voted down in the state G. A. R. convention here yesterday. Another resolution arraigning the pension department for its illiberal construction of the pension laws was adopted. A resolution commending President Roosevelt for his pronouncement regarding the preference that should be shown G. A. R. veterans under civil service law was unanimously adopted.

Ohio Still Rising.

Evansville, Ind., March 7.—It is believed the river will not go over 37.5 feet here. The crest of the rise will probably reach here by Saturday noon. The stage today is about 37 feet. All the boats are late owing to the wind. In many of the smaller towns the boats cannot land. The water is over the lowlands below and above the city, but thus far no damage has resulted, as farmers have their stock protected in elevated barns.

TROUBLE BREWING

Gambling Judgments At Washington Result In Complications.

A SENSATIONAL FIGHT

Vice President of the Bank and Charles H. Roberts Give Town Something to Talk About.

Sheriff Levied On Matt Kelley's Safe and Now Can't Work the Combination.

Washington, Ind., March 7.—There seems to be no end to the interesting developments in the Davis gambling case. Sheriff Morgan has seized a fine, large safe belonging to Matt Kelley, one of the gamblers against whom the $9,000 judgment was given. When asked for the combination Kelley said he had lost it. It is believed the safe contains valuable papers and jewelry belonging to Kelley and another well-known gambler against whom a suit is pending. The sheriff has also seized a large quantity of gambling paraphernalia which seems to be a "Jonah," for the reason that the law will not authorize its sale or disposal in any way. It is held that his only course is to destroy the property.

The fight between Attorney J. W. Ogden, who is vice president of the People's National bank, and Charles H. Roberts over the appraisal of Kelley's saloon stock is still the talk of the town. Ogden precipitated the trouble, it is claimed, and drew a knife with a threat to "cut Roberts' heart out," when friends interfered. Both are Kentuckians. Especial surprise is expressed because the deputy sheriff who was present made no interference. Ogden is quoted as saying he proposes to see that local gamblers are sent to prison for conspiracy to wreck the People's National bank. There are some serious counter threats and each day brings new developments.

A DARING ESCAPE

Alleged Kidnaper Leaps With Child From Moving Train.

Greencastle, Ind., March 7.—Jacob Reynolds threw a little girl from a moving train on the Monon railroad at Limesdale yesterday. He then jumped after her, escaping a Kentucky sheriff who had been after him since October 11.

The sheriff had arrested Reynolds at Valparaiso on a warrant charging him with kidnapping the little daughter of a married woman who lives in Green county, Kentucky. Reynolds says he is the father of the child, but the woman denies it. The prisoner was being taken back to Kentucky and the handcuffs were removed from him to permit him to take the little girl into the other end of the car. His continued absence alarmed the sheriff finally and his suspicions of an escape were fulfilled when he and the conductor made a search for Reynolds. Fourteen hours later, at a spot 15 miles from where Reynolds left the train, he was again arrested. Both he and the child were badly scratched by their fall from the train.

Not Saying Much.

Brazil, Ind., March 7.—The block coal miners are holding secret sessions and decline to make known what they are doing with the questions that are up for discussion. James Cantwell has been elected district chairman and William Trigger secretary. The miners will meet the operators in joint conference Saturday. It is believed they will soon adjust affairs with the operators.

Dangerous Football.

Terre Haute, Ind., March 7.—Lewis Nunley, 16 years old, is on trial for shooting with intent to kill Charles Wilson last November, while they were playing football. Nunley accused Wilson of "slugging" and shot him. The bullet entered his mouth and fell down his throat into his stomach. Wilson has entirely recovered from the wound.

Victim of Mine Explosion.

Clinton, Ind., March 7.—Milton Craft, one of the seven men injured in the Lyford mine explosion 10 days ago, is dead of his injuries. It is thought the others will recover, although two were seriously hurt by inhaling flames. It is said by coal miners here that if the "shooters' bill" had been passed by the last legislature the explosion would hardly have occurred.

Flouring Mill Wrecked.

Fort Wayne, Ind., March 7.—The flouring mill of Brudi & Co., on the north side of the city was wrecked yesterday by the explosion of a gas engine. J. G. Brudi, the manager, and Charles Gerken, the engineer, were probably fatally hurt.

Killed By Dredging Machine.

Princeton, Ind., March 7.—George Gregory of English was killed by being caught in the machinery of a dredge-boat while working on a ditch near here.

There Will Be No Trial.

Evansville, Ind., March 7.—William B. Cox, who killed his wife in a drunken frenzy and then attempted suicide, is dead of his injuries; closing the incident.

HE WAS THE STAR

Gov. Durbin Covers Himself With Glory at Cincinnati.

Indianapolis, March 7.—A number of Governor Durbin's friends have called on him the last two days to find out if him how much truth there is in the report that Governor Beckham of Kentucky refused to attend the chamber of commerce banquet at Cincinnati because of the presence of Indiana's chief executive as a guest of honor. Governor Durbin pooh-poohs the report. He gives Governor Beckham credit with being too broad to let an official act of the governor of another state, although it was displeasing, cause him to think of retaliation in such manner. Until he has positive evidence that Governor Beckham refused to be present on his account he will take no stock in such reports. There are, however, many who believe that Beckham would have participated in the banquet but for the presence of Governor Durbin. The latter's friends have learned with pride that his toast was one of the distinct hits of the program and they feel that he is becoming something of an after-dinner speaker, although he does not make any pretensions in that line.

Mason J. Niblack of Vincennes, who was in Indianapolis today, says there is no doubt but that congress will make an appropriation this session for the erection of a government building at Vincennes as a memorial to George Rogers Clark. He was informed while in Washington last week by Senator Fairbanks, chairman of the committee on public buildings and grounds that the bill for the building will be passed soon. The rules are that where there is no federal court or revenue department government buildings are made but one story high, but Niblack says an exception will be made in the case of Vincennes. The second floor will be a memorial hall for the preservation of all relics connected with the memorable campaign of Clark, which is one of the great incidents of the early history of Indiana. Niblack declared that every resident of Vincennes is taking a personal interest in collection of Clark mementoes.

R. C. Hillis of Logansport, a candidate for the Republican nomination for superintendent of public instruction, was here today looking after his interests. He is one of the younger candidates, as he is but 24. He is, however, making a hard campaign and many regard him as one of the leading candidates. He said he was doing his best and that he felt his chances are good and improving all the time. Many believe the real race for superintendent is between Hillis and Fasset A. Cotton of Newcastle.

The state board of health had a meeting today at which a number of interesting matters were taken up. It was called primarily to consider the situation at Michigan City, where hundreds of people have been prostrated by use of impure water. The citizens have sought relief at home and failing, had to call on the state board. The smallpox situation was also briefly discussed, but there is not so much cause for alarm as there was a few days ago, as there are not so many cases.

Domestic Complication.

La Porte, Ind., March 7.—John P. Kintzele is in jail waiting to be taken to the insane hospital. His wife was recently released from the Logansport hospital. She says she was confined there at the solicitation of her friends that she might escape the unpleasant life she was leading. She was discharged as soon as the hospital authorities learned the condition of affairs.

Fatal Race.

Flora, Ind., March 7.—While racing in the streets Charles Byrum, 17 years old, was thrown from his horse and fatally hurt.

Fire! Fire!!

When that cry sounds how people rush to help and sympathize! And when some fireman rescues a woman from the flames, the streets echo with applauding shouts.

And yet if that woman had perished in the flames it is possible that she would have suffered less than she suffers almost daily from the inflammation which disease has lighted in the delicate womanly organism.

That fire of inflammation can be put out. The gnawing ulcer can be cured. Dr. Pierce's Favorite Prescription not only establishes womanly regularity and drives encumbering drains, but it heals inflammation and cures female weakness. It makes weak women strong and sick women well.

"I suffered for four years with what four physicians pronounced ulceration and prolapse of the uterus," writes Mrs. Ada Brooks, of Kirbyville, Taney Co., Missouri. "Also inflammation of bladder and urethra. My case was chronic and complicated. Had several good physicians, but kept getting worse. I had been confined to my bed five months when I wrote to you. I received your reply very soon and then dismissed my physician and began taking Dr. Pierce's medicines. I took eight bottles of his 'Favorite Prescription' and 'Golden Medical Discovery,' and began to get better at once. In two months I could sit up in a chair, and kept getting better. In four months could do all my house work, including washing and sewing."

Jackson County Republican.
Pursuant to the call issued by the Republican Central Committee of Jackson County the republicans of Jackson township will meet in mass convention at the city building in Seymour, Saturday March 15, at 1:30 p. m. to elect five delegates, and five alternates to the republican state convention. C. D. BILLINGS, township chairman. H. C. DANNETTELL, secretary.

EDITOR Bryan takes a turn at David B. Hill this week, reminding him in very forcible language that he was out of the Bryan fold in 1896.

THE superintendent of the Kokomo schools is keeping up his war on cigarettes. By calling in the boys caught smoking he has eight dealers in cigarettes in trouble for selling cigarettes to boys. The prosecutor is going after the violators of the law.

"THAT young active blood is demanded in so many departments of our activities, especially in our industrial life, is no reason why inexperienced counsellors should be chosen to guide our political destinies."—Indianapolis News.

The News is quite right and therefore the republicans of Indiana have at last reached the conclusion that our two splendidly equipped United States senators shall be re-elected. Senator Fairbanks is a tower of strength in that great law-making body and is the pride of Hoosier republicans. While Senator Beveridge like the senior Senator is serving only his first term he has shown superior ability. The people especially appreciate the fact that he has two times gone to the Orient at his own expense to study the great questions growing out of the Spanish-American war. It would be folly to think of defeating either of our senators. For that matter the party is practically a unit for their re-election.

IT WILL be remembered that during the county seat litigation D. A. Kochenour, of Brownstown, was county attorney. He drew his salary regularly, too, and when the commissioners concluded to employ another lawyer as legal advisor he refused to vacate for awhile. He then filed a claim for salary after he had been deposed and was no longer rendering services as county attorney. To enforce this claim he brought suit in the circuit court and got judgement for $100. An appeal was taken to the supreme court where the case is now pending. But his claims did not stop with that. He next put in a claim for "extras" amounting to $830, that he wants the taxpayers of Jackson county to pay. These "extras" are chiefly for his services during the county seat litigation. The commissioners refused to pay the claim so he brought suit in the circuit court and has taken a change of venue to Lawrence county. In his complaint he makes demand for $1,000 in his first paragraph, $1,500 in the second and $2,000 in the third, making the total of his demand $4,500. Do the taxpayers of Jackson county think that they should be called upon to pay Mr. Kochenour this money? Were not his services paid for when his salary as county attorney was paid?

BREAD AND BRIDES.

THE PARTS VIANDS PLAY IN MARRIAGE CEREMONIES.

Sweetheart Cakes of a Dutch Damsel—Egyptian Bridegrooms Must Work For Their Supper—Wine in China—Married by Candy.

The important part which different viands play in marriage ceremonies makes rather an interesting story.

For example, the Swedish bride fills her pocket with bread, which she dispenses to every one she meets on her way to church, every piece she gives away averting, as she believes, a misfortune.

On the threshold of her new home a bride in Serbia is presented with a plate of bonbons, one of which she and the bridegroom share between them, the divided bonbon signifying that no bitterness shall divide them. A slice of wheat corn is also given to the bride. Of this she takes three handfuls, throws it over her head, emptying the sieve upon the ground. The scattered corn denotes that the bride brings joy and prosperity into her new home. The bride is still outside the door, nor can she enter until she has placed two loaves of bread beneath her arms and taken a bottle of wine into her hands. With these emblems she at length crosses the threshold of her future home. At the first meal of the newly married pair bread and wine must be taken by both to denote that thenceforward all they have shall be equally divided between them and that their married life shall be passed in unity and fidelity.

A Russian wooing culminates in the betrothal feast, at which the bride elect in return for a long tress of hair which she has given to the bridegroom receives bread and salt and an almond cake.

In Holland if a young man is in love with a girl and wishes to ask her in marriage he buys a small sweet cake and, wrapping it up in soft paper, proceeds to the house of his inamorata. He is ushered into the midst of the family circle. Without a word he walks up to the young lady and lays the cake on the table before her. The rest of the family affect not to notice anything unusual and continue their work or their reading. The young man turns aside and talks to the father or mother on some very ordinary subject, keeping his eyes eagerly fixed on the girl while he is conversing. If she accepts his offer, she takes up the cake and eats it. If she is a coquettish damsel, she tortures the young man by turning it over and playing with it before she decides to taste it and then enraptures him by eating it to the last crumb. If, on the other hand, she wishes to have nothing more to do with her admirer, she puts it back on the table. The young man takes up the cake and, with a "Vaarvol byzamen," leaves the house. The matter is then kept a profound secret by both families, and the outer world never hears of it. In place of a wedding cake in Holland wedding candies are given—"bruid zuikers" they are called. They are passed around by children and are served in flower trimmed baskets.

Bride pudding is the name of the piece of resistance served at a Norse peasant wedding. This is not brought on the table until the last day of the festivities, three or five days being given up to feasting and merrymaking. The appearance of the bride pudding is the signal of dismissal, and at the close of the feast the guests say farewell, presenting at the same time their gifts, which consist of cash. This the bride receives, the bridegroom presenting each donor with a glass of wine.

Partaking of two tiny glasses of wine is all the ceremony necessary to make a marriage in some Chinese provinces, provided a quantity of fireworks are set off. These are to wake the "great joss" from his sleep that he may witness the ceremony.

At a Hebrew wedding man and wife slip from one cup of wine, symbolizing participation in the joys and pain of earthly life. The emptied goblet is placed on the floor and crushed into a thousand pieces by the bridegroom, who thus shows that he will put his foot on all evils that may enter the family circle.

At an Egyptian wedding feast meat is not eaten because of the belief that it would lead to future bickerings between them. Eggs, fruits and sweets are served. The first meal in the new house cannot be touched until, after every device known to the bridegroom, the bride has been at last induced to speak. Once she utters a word, he claps his hands, and supper is brought to them.

Married by candy is the plan in Burma. Of all marriage rites this takes the palm for conciseness and sweet simplicity. Here the dusky lady takes the initiative. Seeing a youth who pleases her, she offers him a sweet. If he accepts her proposal, he promptly eats the token of affection, and they are thereby made man and wife. In the act of eating alone this most primitive rite consists. If the youth be not favorably disposed, he remarks with all gallantry that that particular candy is not to his taste, and the matter is ended. In Mandalay three weeks after a marriage kinsmen bring the bridegroom a bowl of rice, a vessel of wine and a fowl, much of which collection is sacrificed to the spirits of ancestors.

A Bagoda bride—in the Philippines—if she be good looking and the daughter of a warrior, is sold by her father for about $30, which sum is not given in money, but in vegetables and chickens. One way of estimating such things is at the price of a brass gong. Such a gong is worth thirty silver dollars, and it is a valuable maiden indeed who will bring two brass gongs.—What to Eat.

THE MEXICAN EDITOR.

It is Very Easy For Him to Get Into Serious Trouble.

The newspaper laws of Mexico are very stringent. If any person is mentioned in a newspaper article and feels offended about it, he can easily send the editor of the paper and the writer of the article to prison. The statements may have been far within the limits of truth and justice, but that makes no difference. The editor incommunicado has a chance to think about the law, and the aggrieved person smiles pleasantly. After awhile the law gets in its work, the case is investigated, and the editor is punished, for even the truth is libelous, and libel is one of the offenses most severely condemned.

According to the theory of the Mexican law, every person has a right to go about entirely free from annoyance by other persons. If the person violates the law, the newspaper has no right to say so. It can lay information before the courts if it wants to, but it must not say in its columns that it has done so. Then the law will step in and take charge of the offender, but the representatives of the paper will not be allowed to attend the trial, and only the bare result, after weeks of waiting, can be told to the public.

If the offense charged against the editor is regarded by the first magistrate to whom the complaint is made as being especially grave, the paper is generally suppressed. The complaint has been received and passed upon. Then a squad of police descends upon the printing office. Sometimes all the employees are arrested, sometimes only the editor. Then the doors of the building are closed, official seals are placed upon them, and a guard is stationed to see that no one tries to enter. For three days the editor can do nothing. The laws under which he is arrested are modeled after those of the code Napoleon, and for three days he is held incommunicado, while the authorities hunt up evidence. Then he is given a hearing. In the meantime his paper has been suppressed, and in many cases it never comes to life again, even though the editor may eventually clear himself of all blame.—Pittsburgh Dispatch.

HOW THE CHINESE GET RAIN

Some Peculiar Practices in Vogue in the Celestial Kingdom.

It is one of the peculiarities of the Chinese that, while they have developed elaborate philosophies, none of them has led to any confidence in the uniformity of nature. Neither the people nor their rulers have any fixed opinion as to the cause of rainfall. The plan in some provinces when the need of rain is felt is to borrow a god from a neighboring district and petition him for the desired result. If his answer is satisfactory, he is returned to his home with every mark of honor; otherwise he may be put out in the sun as a hint to wake up and do his duty. A bunch of willow is usually thrust into his hand, as willow is sensitive to moisture.

Another plan in extensive use is the building of special temples in which are wells containing several iron tables. When there is a scarcity of rain, a messenger starts out with a tablet marked with the date of the journey and the name of the district making the petition. Arriving at another city, he pays a sum of money and is allowed to draw another tablet from the well, throwing in his own by way of exchange. On the return journey he is supposed to eat only bran and travel at top speed day and night. Sometimes he passes through districts as greatly in need of rain as his own. Then the people in these places waylay him and, temporarily borrowing his tablet, get the rain intended for another place.

Prayers are usually made in the fifth and sixth months, when the rainfall is always due, and a limit of ten days is set for their effective operation. Under such conditions rain usually falls during the prescribed time. When the prayers are in progress, the umbrella, among other objects, comes under the ban. In some provinces foreigners have been mobbed for carrying this harmless article at that time.—New York Commercial Advertiser.

A THIEF AMONG THE ANGELS

Spurgeon Corrected His Opinion of What He Might Do.

One day the mayor of Cambridge, who had tried to curb Mr. Spurgeon's tendencies to sensationalism, inquired of him if he had really told his congregation that if a thief got into heaven he would begin picking the angels' pockets.

"Yes, sir," the young preacher replied, "I told them that if it were possible for an ungodly man to go to heaven without having his nature changed he would be none the better for being there, and then, by way of illustration, I said that were a thief to get in among the glorified he would remain a thief still, and he would go around the place picking the angels' pockets."

"But, my dear young friend," asked the mayor seriously, "don't you know that the angels haven't any pockets?"

"No, sir," replied young Spurgeon, with equal gravity, "I did not know that, but I am glad to be assured of the fact from a gentleman who does know. I will take care to put it all right the first opportunity I get."

The next Monday morning Spurgeon walked into the mayor's place of business and said to him cheerfully, "I set that matter right yesterday, sir."

"What matter?" he inquired.

"Why, about the angels' pockets."

"What did you say?"

"Oh, sir, I just told the people I was sorry to say that I had made a mistake the last time I preached to them, but that I had met a gentleman, the mayor of Cambridge, who had assured me that the angels had no pockets, so I must correct what I had said, as I did not want anybody to go away with a false notion about heaven. I would therefore say that if a thief got among the angels without having his nature changed he would try to steal the feathers out of their wings!"—Homiletic Review.

HUNDRED MILE COAST.

The Oroya Railway in Peru Distinguished Itself in Many Ways.

Lord Ernest Hamilton describes his experience of a thrilling but perilous pastime, the descent in a small hand car of a wonderful mountain railway in Peru.

"As a matter of fact," he writes, referring to the title of the article, "it is 100; but, for the sake of a title, the extra six may go—100 are enough at any rate for purposes of illustration. These hundred odd miles are to be found on the Ferro-Carril Central of Peru, and they are to be found nowhere else."

"This Oroya railway is a very wonderful line indeed. It not only climbs higher than any other railway in the world, but also distinguished itself in a variety of other ways incidentally referred to hereafter. But the accomplishment with which I am chiefly concerned is this—that it provides the only road in the world which a man on wheels can travel over 100 miles by his own momentum and practically at any pace to which the fiend of recklessness may urge him."

"The object of what is here written is to trace the sensations born of a run down from the summit of the Oroya railway, 15,000 feet above sea level, to the verge of the Pacific. You start under the eye of the eternal snows, and you finish among humming birds and palms. You start sick with the unspeakable sickness of soroch, and you finish in the ecstasy of an exultation too great for words."

"The gods of Olympus were worms beside the man who has during the last three hours controlled his car from the Paso de Galera to Callao, for it is in the control that lies the joy, as in other things apart from car running. To sit beside the brakeman is good, but to drop the brakeman on a friendly siding and grasp the lever in your own firm but not too exacting hand is to sup a liberal foretaste of the joys of heaven."—Pearson's Magazine.

Medical Society Meeting.

The Jackson County Medical Society met at the Hotel Jonas Thursday afternoon, March 6th, 1902. The following members were present: Drs. Barnes, Hill, Gerrish, Osterman, D. J. Cummings, H. A. Cummings, Shields, Ritter, Galbraith and Kamman.

This being the time for the election of officers, the society proceeded at once to elect officers for the coming year which resulted as follows:

President, G. G. Graessle.

Vice-President, H. A. Cummings.

Sec. and Treas., G. H. Kamman.

Board of Censors G. O. Barnes, M. F. Gerrish, J. K. Ritter.

Delegates to the American Medical Association at Saratogo Springs, N. Y. next June: A. G. Osterman, T. S. Galbraith.

Alternates, J. K. Ritter and G. G. Graessle.

Delegates to the State Society at Evans' ville, next May: D. J. Cummings, A. G. Osterman, M. F. Gerrish and J. K. Ritter.

Alternates, G. O. Barnes, L. B. Hill, J. M. Shields, and G. H. Kamman.

Dr. Kamman then read a paper on the Etiology and Pathology of Typhoid Fever. It has been conclusively shown by noted pathologists that this disease is due to a specific germ, the typhoid bacillus. This bacillus finds its way into the system through food and drink, mainly through drinking water and milk. The subject of Typhoid was discussed quite at length by the members present and the absolute necessity for pure drinking water was plainly brought out. The physicians of this city reported that Typhoid Fever had increased in the city in the last few years. Dr. Kamman was appointed to continue his paper on Typhoid and give the diagnosis and treatment of that disease at the next meeting.

A WORLD WIDE VICTORY.

The recent victories of the house of Baldwin at the Paris Exposition give to its products a value and prestige not possessed by any other American piano. The grand Prix awarded the Baldwin Piano is an honor coveted by all the manufacturers of the world, but which has never been bestowed upon any American piano except the Baldwin. The Silver Medal awarded the Hamilton pianos and organs shows the estimate of the International Jury of these Standard Instruments. The fifteen other awards [gold, silver and bronze medals, and honorable mentions], serve to emphasize the Great one, and show the high value placed upon the details of construction and the inventions embodied in these instruments.

THE RUG DESIGNERS

PATTERNS DESCEND FROM PARENT TO CHILD IN THE ORIENT.

Reasons Why Animal Figures Are Rarely Seen on Persian Rugs.
Prayer Rugs of the Mohammedans and Their Use—The Rugs of Sivas.

The designs of eastern rugs are often the spontaneous outcome of the fancy of the weaver. Sometimes they are handed down from one generation to another. In some cases young girls are taught the design by an adult, who marks it in the sand. At other times a drawing of the rug is made on paper, the instructor showing her pupils the arrangement of every thread and the color to be used. When all this has been done, the pupils must make the rug without looking at the drawing.

Persian rugs excel those of other countries in artistic design as well as in harmonious coloring. The Persians seem to have a natural intuition in the use and blending of different shades, and in the designs that contain these certain colors they achieve the happiest results. It is really wonderful what exquisite fabrics these people, born and reared in ignorance and poverty, produce.

The designs in Persian rugs are generally floral, and in some districts, especially Fars, the women weavers invent the designs, varying them every two or three years. The Mohammedan religion does not allow any direct representation of animal forms, consequently rugs woven under its influence take floral, geometric and vegetable forms. The Shah sect of Moslems, however, numbering about 15,000,000, of whom 8,000,000 are Persians, do not regard representations of animals as unlawful. By the industry of this sect and that of infidels and of all who dis regard the law of the Koran animal forms are seen on some Persian rugs.

The prayer rug was evidently invented for the purpose of providing the worshipers with one absolutely clean place on which to offer prayers. It is not lawful for a Moslem to pray on any place not perfectly clean, and unless each one has his own special rug he is not certain that the spot has not been polluted. With regard to the purity of the place of prayer Mohammedans are specially careful when making their pilgrimages, the rugs which they take with them having been preserved from pollution by being rolled up until their journey is begun or until the hour for prayer arrives. It does not matter to these followers of Mohammed how unclean a rug that is on the floor may be, because over it they place the prayer rug when their devotions begin.

The Turkish rugs made at Sivas are always woven of wool, and almost every hamlet carries on the industry of weaving in the homes. There are no factories, the young girls and women doing the work here as in other parts of Turkey. Sivas rugs are in most cases small, measuring about eight by four feet, but in these years larger and more attractive rugs are being made. Even the poorest families have fine rugs, for they regard them as valuable property, to be sold only under the pressure of great extremity. The weavers are so frugal in their manner of living that their daily earnings of 15 to 19 cents is sufficient to supply their wants. Their food consists usually of rice and crushed wheat, with occasionally a small piece of mutton.

Smyrna is only a mart for the sale of comparatively inferior rugs that are made in the interior from the coarse hair of the Angora goat. These are woven in irregular designs and, although not artistic, are largely sought after for coverings for the bare floors and to add warmth. The weaving of these rugs is crudely done by girls and women. Sometimes the loom is primitively constructed from the trunks of trees. The designs are very simple and have either been handed down from earlier generations or are supplied from the city.

Yuruk rugs are so called from a band of nomads who dwell among the mountains of Anatolia. They have large flecks of fine sheep and weave rugs of firm, even texture. The colors are very good, the field often of dark brown, or named with large designs.

About 200 years ago small embroidered rugs were largely made in Persia, chiefly at Isfahan. These were prayer rugs, and on each of them, near one end, was a small embroidered mark to show where the bit of sacred earth from Mecca was to be placed. In obedience to a law of the Koran that the head must be bowed to the ground in prayer this was touched by the forehead when the presentation was made, and so the letter of the law was carried out. The custom prevails. The Persian women who weave the finest prayer rugs seldom weave any other kind of rug.—Rugs, Oriental and Occidental.

His Error.

Consumer—I say, what kind of a cigar do you call this? It's the worst tobacco I ever tasted.

Won.

He had gone to ask her father for her hand in marriage. "Well, sir, what is it?" snapped out the old man. "Remember, I am a man of few words." "I don't care if you're a man of only one word if it's the right one," replied the suitor. He got the girl.—Philadelphia Record.

The most effusive argument a charming woman can use to a man is an appealing "Don't you think so?"—Smart Set.

Patience is the key of content.—M. Bamford.

HORSES OF VENICE.

Actual Count Increases the Number to Fifteen.

It is a popular joke to say that there are but six horses in Venice, four over the portico of St. Mark's cathedral and two bronze animals of heroic size, one bestrode by Victor Emmanuel and the other by General Colloane. But this is a mistake. There are four other horses, also of bronze, in the Church of St. John and St. Paul, and quite a number of plaster and marble in the different public buildings, making altogether at least fifteen or sixteen. Ruskin and other competent critics have declared the statue of Colloane to be the best equestrian monument ever cast in bronze. It was designed and cast by Andrea Verrocchio, painter, sculptor, jeweler, engraver, poet and musician, a man of infinite genius, whose greatest fame lies in the fact that he was the instructor of the greatest artists of all centuries—Michael Angelo, Raphael and Leonardo da Vinci. The statue of Victor Emmanuel is not so highly thought of.

The horses on the top of St. Mark's are famous and have had a trying experience. They date back to the prehistoric age and are supposed to be the work of a Greek artist named Lyssippos and designed for a sculptured chariot. They were taken to Rome during the empire and first used as ornaments upon a triumphal arch erected by Nero and afterward by Trajan. The Emperor Constantine took them from Rome to Constantinople, where the Duke Dandolo seized them as loot and brought them to Venice. When Napoleon entered the city in 1797, he had them taken down from the roof of the cathedral and shipped them in wagons over the Alps to Paris. They served as ornaments upon the triumphal arch in the Place du Carrousel till 1815, when Emperor Francis I. of Austria redeemed them, and they were replaced, at his expense, where they now stand. These ponderous animals are of pure copper, and each weighs about two tons. They were formerly gilded, but the gold has been worn off by the weather, and the verdigris which has accumulated upon the copper gives them a rich green tint.—William E. Curtis in Chicago Herald.

Only One Impeachment and but Two Resolutions of Censure.

Andrew Johnson was the only president of the United States ever impeached, and on the trial before the senate he was acquitted, the vote in favor of conviction barely falling short of the necessary two-thirds.

Two resolutions of censure on the president have been passed, once by the senate and once by the house, on occasions when the hostile majority was not large enough either to pass measures over the president's veto or to impeach him.

The first was passed by the senate on March 28, 1834, censuring President Andrew Jackson for alleged violation of the constitution and laws by his removal of the government deposits from the United States bank. The majority of the senate was opposed to Jackson in his war upon that bank, and this vote of censure was the only thing they could do about it. Jackson protested against this resolution as a charge to answer which no opportunity could be afforded him. The senate refused to receive the protest. Finally, on Jan. 16, 1837, the resolution of censure was expunged from the journal of the senate.

The second resolution of censure was in a report adopted by the house from the house committee to which President John Tyler's message vetoing the tariff bill of 1842 had been referred. This report censured the president for alleged improper use of the veto power. Tyler protested against this, as Jackson had done before him, but he had, as a member of the senate, voted against receiving Jackson's protest, and in answer to his protest the house sent him a copy of the senate resolution on the former occasion.

Making Errors.

A Massachusetts business firm prints this paragraph at the top of its letter heads: "Errors—we make them; so does every one. We will cheerfully correct them if you will write to us. Try to write good naturedly if you can, but write to us anyway. Do not complain to some one else first or let the matter pass. We want the first opportunity to make right any injustice that we may do." The little sermon deserves a wide audience. Few people have not had occasion at some time in their lives to regret the sending of a harsh or hasty note of complaint. It may be necessary to assert one's rights in subsequent letters, but there is no better rule of correspondence than to make the first one good natured.—Youth's Companion.

A Cure For Scald Head.

I have heard my grandmother say she had cured many a scald head by taking pure pine tar and melted lard to make an ointment when melted together so the tar won't stick, then keep the head as clean as possible and oil with the ointment. She said she had seen it cure heads when the matter had eaten seams in the neck.—Detroit Free Press.

Encouragement.

Tom—I don't think I'll ever get up enough courage to ask you to marry me. You know "faint heart never won fair lady."

Belle (blushing)—But I'm a brunette.—Philadelphia Record.

There is a cave on the Jorend fiord, Norway, from which at every change of the weather flashes of lightning issue.

Character is perfectly well educated will.—Novalis.

FORCEFUL EXPRESSIONS.

The Power of Illustration in the Turn of a Phrase.

James Russell Lowell said, "There's a deal of solid kicking in the meekest looking mule." If the statement had been, "There's a good deal of obstinacy covered by apparent amiability," the remark might have passed without a moment's notice, but attached to such a figure as the poet used it will be difficult for the mind ever to get rid of it.

Mazzini says, "Labor is the divine law of our existence." This is little more than commonplace, but when he added, "Repose is desertion and suicide," the commonplace was transfigured into a memorable illustration.

A French writer said, "The really efficient laborer will be found not to crowd his day with work." That seems to be forgettable. When he adds, "He will saunter to his task surrounded by a wide halo of ease and leisure," the halo serves the purpose of an explanatory illustration.

President Garfield once said, "Nine times out of ten the best thing that can happen to a young man is to be tossed overboard and compelled to sink or swim for himself." The tossing overboard was the illustration. The sagacious president gave it significance and emphasis by personal reference, "In all my acquaintance I never knew a man to be drowned who was worth the saving."

When Lavater said, "Habit is altogether too arbitrary a master for me to submit to," it was the word "master" that constituted the memorable illustration.

Carlyle, a great master of metaphor, said truly: "No man lives without jostling and being jostled. In all ways he has to elbow himself through the world, giving and receiving offense." The doctrine of this sentence might easily have become a mere platitude, but it is fixed upon the memory by jostling and being jostled and the elbowing of oneself through the world. This illustration is the very making of the argument.—Joseph Parker, D. D., in Homiletic Review.

SOME METALS.

Iridium, worth more than $750 a pound, is the hardest metal known and is used to tip gold pens.

Lithium, worth more than $1,100 a pound, is used only in medicine, its salts being valuable in rheumatic affections.

Tungsten, worth 90 cents a pound, is largely used in metallurgy and gives to steel qualities similar to those imparted by molybdenum.

Molybdenum, worth $1.44 a pound, is used in metallurgy. Molybdenum steel possesses the rare quality of preserving its hardness even when heated to redness.

Selenium, which has the curious property of losing its resistance to the electric current under the influence of light, is used in the telegraph and is worth $22 a pound.

Uranium, worth $80 a pound, is used in the glass and porcelain industries. It has been found that uranium carbide is superior to nickel or tungsten in the manufacture of high grade steel.

Palladium, which has the smallest coefficient of dilatation, is used for the mounting of astronomical instruments. The standard meter of France is made of palladium. The pure metal costs $4.82 a pound.

Vanadium oxidizes in air with great difficulty, melts at 2,000 degrees and becomes red-hot in hydrogen. Neither hydrochloric acid nor nitric acid attacks it. It costs $502 a pound and is used in coloring glass and in making indelible inks.

Italy's Marriage Brokers.

Marriage brokers are a regular institution in Italy. In Genoa there are several marriage brokers who have pocketbooks filled with the names of the marriageable girls of the different classes, with notes of their figures, personal attractions, fortune and other circumstances. These brokers go about endeavoring to arrange matrimonial alliances in the same offhand mercantile manner which they would bring to bear upon a purely business transaction, and when they succeed they get a commission of 2 or 3 per cent upon the dowry, with such extras of bonuses as may be voluntarily bestowed by the party.

Animals in Turkey.

In Turkey the partridge is detested because once it betrayed the prophet to his enemies, and its legs are red because they were dipped in the blood of Hassan. If a man kills a panther, he is imprisoned for twenty-four hours and then is handsomely rewarded. The crane is respected, and it is a crime to kill it.

The Crocodile.

The crocodile's lower jaw is not socketed in the skull, as is the case with other animals, but the skull is socketed in the jaw, so that the animal can lift the upper part of its head as upon a hinge and so capture whatever prey may be at hand without going to the trouble of getting upon its legs.

What He Wanted to Say.

"Prisoner at the bar," said the judge, "is there anything you wish to say before sentence is passed on you?" The prisoner looked wistfully toward the door and remarked that he would like to say "Good evening," if it would be agreeable to the company.

Not a Sensible Man.

Daughter—Oh, mamma, I do wish I were pretty!

Mother—You needn't, dear. Sensible men think very little about beauty.

Daughter—But it isn't sensible men I'm thinking about, mamma; it's Charley!

HAUNTED.

An Apparition Which Has Frightened Many Women.

There is a certain horrible fascination about stories of haunted houses, in which the presence of an unseen and unearthly guest makes itself strongly felt. There may be a merry-making, a wedding or a christening, and while laughter echoes from the walls and happiness is at flood tide, a sudden chill falls on the heart. The flesh feels as if cold wind blew upon it. There is a sensation as of some evil influence near, and a shiver shakes the shrinking body.

Some such fear as this falls on many a woman in the very hey-day of her happiness. She has been so strong, so perfectly healthy that life has been a continual joy to her. Now some unaccounted feeling touches her. She shivers at the sensation and shrinks from a something which she fears, yet cannot understand. The apparition of disease has passed and thrown its cold shadow on her.

DOGGED BY DISEASE.

The steps of every woman are dogged by disease. And one may well shudder when the shadow of this evil presence falls across the life. Disease can steal the color from a woman's cheeks, the brightness from her eyes. It can make her life creep along on broken wing, sunless and songless. It can wither every flower of happiness in the garden of girlhood and blast every joy of wife and mother. It is doing such things as these constantly. The woman who does not suffer from womanly disease is the exception, not the rule. The woman who does not know the meaning of periodic pain, headache, backache and female weakness, is a wonder to the majority of her sex.

It is a good thing for women that though disease may grasp them it cannot hold them if they take the right means to regain the lost liberty of health. Hundreds of thousands of women who were once fast in the clutch of disease, bear witness that Dr. Pierce's Favorite Prescription freed them from disease, and gave them perfect and permanent health.

J. M. CLARK, Agent.

"A little over a year ago I wrote to you for advice," says Mrs. Elizabeth J. Fisher, of Diana, W. Va. "You advised me to use Dr. Pierce's Favorite Prescription and 'Golden Medical Discovery,' which I did, and with the most happy result. I was troubled with female weakness and bearing-down pains. Had a very bad pain nearly all the time in my left side, nervousness and headache. Was so weak I could hardly walk across my room. Could not sit up only just a little while at a time. My husband got me some of Dr. Pierce's medicine and I began its use. Before I had taken two bottles I was able to help do my work. I used three bottles in all, and it cured me. Now I do all my housework. It is the best medicine I ever used."

IT WILL CURE YOU TOO.

If you are suffering from any form of womanly disease which medicine can cure, you can use "Favorite Prescription" with a practical certainty that you will be cured. It has cured many women for whom physicians had said no cure was possible, and many others who were told they could not be cured without an operation. Dr. Pierce's Favorite Prescription makes weak women strong and sick women well. It establishes regularity, dries weakening drains, heals inflammation and ulceration, and cures female weakness. It is the best tonic and nerve for weak, run-down women, tranquilizing the nerves, encouraging the appetite and inducing refreshing sleep.

"About two years ago I was feeling very bad, could neither eat, sleep nor work. Was very nervous and all run-down," writes Miss Alice Greely, of Westmoreland, N. Hamp. "I had taken Sarsaparilla and had medicine of different kinds from my home doctor, but it did me no good whatever. Finally, I wrote you concerning my case and you prescribed my medicine. I commenced taking Dr. Pierce's Favorite Prescription and took six bottles, also four of 'Golden Medical Discovery' and some of Dr. Pierce's Pellets, these medicines cured me and made me well and strong. I am a new person to what I was before I commenced taking the medicine. Please accept my sincere thanks for benefits I have derived from your medicine."

ARE YOU SICK?

If you are you cannot do a better thing than take advantage of Dr. Pierce's offer of free consultation, by letter. Miss Greely and Mrs. Fisher, with thousands of other women, date the beginning of their restored health with the date of the day they wrote their first letter to Dr. R. V. Pierce.

Sick women are invited to consult Dr. Pierce, by letter, free. All letters are held as strictly private, and the written confidences of women are guarded by the same strict professional privacy observed by Dr. Pierce and his staff in personal consultations with weak and sick women at the Invalids' Hotel and Surgical Institute, Buffalo, N. Y. Address Dr. R. V. Pierce, Buffalo, N. Y.
